

At this point, functions like `signup()` inside of the client's authentication controller (`authentication.client.controller.js`) within `modules/users/client/controllers` can make a ~~$~~ `$http.post` request to the api endpoints that were setup such as `'api/auth/signup'`, connecting the front end to the back end, allowing for actual user creation in MongoDB database.